ANNUAL REPORT
LIBRARY STATISTICS

Fiscal Year 1981-82

The New Mexico State Library is required by statute to collect data from all libraries in the state. The statistics in this document were taken from the 1981-82 annual reports of the public, community, academic, special and institutional libraries. In addition, State Library program statistics and an update of State Library activities are included. 1980 Census data has been used in this report and has served as the basis for all per capita figures.

The help of librarians who have completed reports and made useful suggestions is gratefully acknowledged.

APOLOGIES

The 1981-82 Annual Report/Library Statistics contains many typos on pages 1-5, a result of our new word processor printing out unproofed copy when we asked for final, proofed pages. We apologize for the mistakes.

ADMINISTRATION

During 1981-82, the Administration continued to encourage development of the State Library as a major resource for state employees, and to improve services to other libraries in the state.

Highlights of the year included the fall meeting of COSLA (Chief Officers of State Library Agencies), hosted by the State Library and honored by Governor Bruce King with a proclamation. The library survived the Flood of '81, closing for a week to allow materials to dry out following a water pipe breakage on Christmas Day. Public Relations activities included distribution of two sets of library promotion radio spots to 38 stations, and the second annual Public Relations Workshop for Librarians in New Mexico, this one on graphics.

The major news in Administration was the resignation of Cliff Lange as State Librarian and the beginning of the search for his replacement. The year also saw retirement parties for several long-time employeees: Margaret Kutcher, Henry Anaya and Betty Ela.

DEVELOPMENT

The Development Bureau distributed more than $850,000 to New Mexico libraries in 1981-82. Of that amount, $199,510 went as state grants-in-aid to 62 libraries; $651,510 was given to 72 libraries as part of State Bill 133, the book-buying measure approved by the 1981 Legislature that appropriated 50 cents per capita for public library books ($1457 in leftover state grant money was added to the SB133 distribution). An Interlibrary Cooperative Grants program using LSCA Title III money was established.

A major project was the establishment of Children's Book Examination Center in Roswell, Deming and Albuquerque. These public library Centers receive publisher's copies of books from the State Library, and in return make them available to the public and provide book reviews to approximately 300 librarians in the state. In March, 1982 the State Library and the Centers sponsored a visit to the three cities by author Daniel Fader, which publicized the centers and attracted 600 people to the programs.

Other Development activities include publishing two Occasional Papers (#8, Evaluating Library Services, and #9 Special Project Grants to New Mexico Public Libraries, 1971-72); conducting a series of meetings around the state to explain the new state grants requirements in connection with Occasional Paper #8; distributing 1000 copies of the Adult Basic Reading Catalog, prepared by the Hobbs Public Library under a State Library LSCA Title I grant, and taking charge again of the bookmobile and Books by Mail programs. Studies began on ways to increase the cost effectiveness of the rural service program.

A Large Print Book Circuit for public libraries has been started providing collections of popular fiction and non-fiction. The limited use of large print materials in any one community, plus the expense of maintaining collections, created the need for the State Library to establish the Circuit.

The State Library Continuing Education program developed two independent study courses with the help of outside consultants: Budgeting for Public Libraries and Selecting Materials for the Public Library. A third course on cataloging is under development and a fourth on supervisory skills was purchased in multiple copies from a commercial source and will be made available in 1983.

Additional projects include a Southwest Reference and Acquisitions workshop in two locations which attracted 93 people; awarding of staff development grants totalling $3200 to the public libraries in Albuquerque, Roswell and Santa Fe; revision of the Continuing Education Resources Handbook to include an additional chapter on correspondence courses, and reprinting of the Reference Self-Study Course, which continues to be widely used for in-house staff training. The Continuing Library Education Advisory Council (CLEAC) met twice. It conducted its annual training needs assessment survey at the NMLA conference and awarded a $200 grant to help sponsor an NMLA workshop on bibliographic instruction.

The Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped converted to a simplified circulation system to speed service without increasing staff size or workload. LBPH survived a December flood caused by a broken water pipe with the help of staff and volunteers who dried off every record container in the collection.

INFORMATION SERVICES

The Reference program interduced a computerized bibliographic search service, Information Online, for state government. It provides access to more than 200 data bases through Lockheed/Dialog, SDC/Orbit, and the BRS system. Health, education, management and grants are some of the most frequently used databases. The State Library pays the cost of the search and the agency is charged for any offline prints.

During 1981-82, the State Library become the official home of State Data Center 1980 census information. The Library also is responsible for the affilicate program of 13 other census collections throughout the state. A workshop on using census materials was conducted for the affiliates, which included some academic and public libraries.

The Library's book selection policy has been revised to reflect the redirection of the State Library from a circulating library to primarily a reference library for state government and other libraries.

Two major projects are planned for 1982-83. First, the Library will extend Information Online on a demonstration basis to public libraries, which currently have no direct access to database searching for their patrons. The State Library will test the need for this service in public libraries and make decision based upon what is learned. Second, approximately half of the State Library New Mexico newspaper collection not already on microfilm will be filmed. The titles chosen are the oldest paper or those not available in other collections.

The Media Center, part of Information Services, has strengthened its collection of films and videotapes in management, supervision, health, safety, resource conversation and New Mexican. The collection emphasis is on acquisition of audiovisual equipment and materials to support staff development and public information activities of government agencies and civic organizations. In 1982-83, the Center will concentrate on buying materials on personnal performance, health, safety, economic development and environmental improvement.

The Center's production activities have increased substantially. It has assumed complete responsibility for the taping of the weekly public television show Report from Santa FE. Cooperation with the Public Broadcasting System in New Mexico now consists of an average of three 30-minute programs per week, including coverage of the legislative session. In-house productions include a 30-minute documentary on author Frank Waters, which has been broadcast on public television, and the beginning of the second program in the Southwestern Authors series, on Rudolfo Anaya. These programs are partically funded by the New Mexico Humanities Council.

During the year the Department of Finance and Administration began a study of the goals, policies and procedures of the Media Center, at the State Library's request. The changes determined by this study will begin to be implemented in 1982-83.

Also planned are increased activity in the area of teleconferencing service and demonstrations for state government planners and trainers, and design of a 1/2" VHS videocassette circuit for public libraries and institutions.

TECHNICAL SERVICES

OCLC made its mark on the Technical Service Operation in many ways during 1981-82: increased cataloging and interlibrary loan efficiency; less expensive production of catalog cards; help in bibliographic verification for both acquisitions and hard-tofind items for the Reference staff, and readily available information used in a variety of smaller Tech Service projects.

The staff continues to input the State Library collection in the OCLC database, and cdoordinates interlibrary loan activities for non-OCLC libraries. During the fiscal year, the staff processed more than 8700 interlibrary loan transactions, with an 80 percent success rate. That rate is expected to increase in the future as more of the State Library collection is entered into OCLC.

Future plans call for continued retrospective conversation of State Library Collection, including entering state documents. In addition, the staff will do a "trial run" using the OCLC terminal to do serials checking.

[1]Funds from SB 133 (Chapter 59, Laws of 1981) were one-time state appropriations to libraries for the purchase of books.

[2]Total income figures in parentheses are not actual totals for the respective libraries, but only of the state grant amounts to those libraries.
